OCA Outboard Cover From £50

Each cover is tailor made to fit the engine model.

I recently splashed out on a 225hp E-Tec outboard for my RIB – it was my first-ever brand-new engine and I was keen to keep it looking good for as long as possible. Editor Hugo felt exactly the same way about his 200hp Suzuki engine, so we both jumped at the chance to try out one of OCA's custom-made splash covers. These tough waterproof numbers are fleece lined to prevent the cowling being scratched and are designed to be left on the boat when in use. The company also make full-length covers for winter storage.

Fitting my cover for the first time was easy. It was perfectly tailored to the engine, offering a snug fit with no chance of it coming off during use. The rubber mesh panels were located perfectly over the intake vents, allowing the engine to breathe properly even at maximum revs.

During the heavy summer rain, our covers kept both engines bone dry as well as protecting them from UV rays and salt. And Hugo was particularly delighted to find a way of protecting his Suzuki four-stroke from the wanton dive-bombing of the local seagull population. Each cover is tailor made to suit the precise make and model of all the main outboard manufacturers. They are offered in a variety of colours and graphics, including your boat's name if desired. My only reservation is that I rather like the styling of my engine and hiding it under a cover seems a bit of a shame when the sun is shining and people are watching!
